The United States Senate last nigh and leave the "Pearl of the Antillies agree to the Senate resolution and that the President will sign the measure.

No one who has followed the course of proceedings for the past few weeks can doubt that this will mean war. Spain, with a foolish pride, based on egotism and ignorance, fondly imagines that it will be an easy matter to thrush the United States and will mean the state of the senate of the government by an anneal to the sets. will be a wise step or not it is needless o discuss. This seems to be entirely "home" industry. Perhaps that is the reason the committee refrained from giving it a "black eye."

Mr. Wayne MacVeagh says "Spair Mr. Wayne MacVeugh says "Spain has announced her willingness to withdraw her soldiers from that unhappy island," referring to Cuba, of course, it would be interesting to know how the Honorable Wayne scooped the balance of the country on this important piece of news. "UNCLE JOE'S" PREDICTION. "UNCLE JOE'S" PREDICTION.
A characteristic story is going the rounds today about "Unele fee" Cannon, says the Chicago Fost, Mr. Cannon, as everybody knows, has been a stalwart advocate of honorable peace, and has been unusually outspan, in Jefining his position. But "Uncle Joe" is not blind, and he is an excellent judge of the temper of the house of cepresentatives and political currents, ite is quoted as saying to a friend this morning:

"I am for the avoldance of war by all honorable means, but in my opinion, unless this congress is given a chance to go something warlike mighty soon, the republican caucus of the hext house of representatives can be held in the room of the committee on alcoholic liquor traffic. That is the smallest committee in the capitol, I believe."

This would look as though even "Undel Joe" had become weary of long waiting.

LEGAČY TO WESTERN WORLD.

(The Providence Journal.)
The names of the Morgan liners purchased by the government have very properly been changed, for they were altogether too suggestive of Spain: El Sud, El Norte, El Sol and El Rio. By the way, Spain may be driven out of the western hemisphere, but her geographical nomenclature will remain. It is about all, except her language, she has left in the western world now, but

Two children of Mrs. Purnell remain, both in Ireland. Anna, now Mrs. Mc-Dermott, lives in County Wickiow, and oJhn Henry, who was a peach-grower in Georgia for years, now holds a pub-lic office in Dublin.

He was decorated with the third button, and promoted last year to be a second button mandarin. The Chinese declare that Pere Favior's present appointment is due to direct representations made by the Emporer to the Vatican.

THE SOLID SOUTH, (Richmond Leader)

(Richmond Leader.)
From the last quarterly report sent by Bradstreet's Mercantile Agency learn that the failures in the South re-less actually, and less proportionity than in other sections, and less in they were for the same period
t year,

than they were for the same period has year. Per Virginia 58 fallures are reported for the first quarter of the year 1808 oranist 1 in 1837, and liabilities in 1808 were $223,330 argainst $1,007,350 in 1837. The total number of failures in the South for the quarter was 543 against $27 for the same period in 1897, with a die rease in liabilities in favor of 1895 of $2,000,000.

The South is not reckoned among the wealthlest sections of the country, but it is certainly one of the most substantial sections and is better able than any other, perhaps, to stand the slege of hard times. The fact is that the Southern people had such a sever-schooling during the late war that they are equal to any emergency and prepared always for the worst.

But the worst is over and the South is in a better condition than ever hefore to make the most of prosperity that is to come.

The Count of Turin, nephew of the King of Italy and avenger of the honor of Italy's army, has obtained permission to visit this country next summer. Ever popular in Italy, he is much more so since he fought Prince Henri d'Orlonse.

Attempts to Assassinate Them Have Failed.

(Pail Mail Gazette.)

The list of missed monarchs is, taking it no further back than the last half dozen decades or so, an interesting subject of consideration. At the head of it we find the most missed monarch of his own, or, indeed, of any age. Louis Philippe. For a matter of fourteen years, this monarch was constantly having lead pumped at him. His experience began on Nov. 19, 1832. Somebody—it was never properly ascertained who—opened fire upon him on the Pont Neuf. This was but a fore-tast. Fleeshi followed with his infernat machine. July 28, 1835. Nineteen barrets, with four balls in each, arranged to cover a space of twenty-live for Marshal Mortier, three other military of the same than the fire of thins on the spect. The Kings rode home without a scratch of the same year. It was not the same year, and the same of the same with four shots and provided themselves with four shots and provided themselves with four shots injucee. At they succeeded in doing to their taget was to lodge a bit of wadding in one of his ambresial whiskers.

Meantime, Oxford in 1840, John Francis in 1842, Bean a few weeks later in the same year, and William Hamilton in 1849 had all scored misses against the Sovereign Lady of these realms, who was to have yet a further experience at Windson station in 183, when Maclean, the homicidal lunatic, made his attempt.

March 13, 1881, the second Alexander of Russia might have been as much missed as the Citizen King himself. Karakozow had missed him at $6. Petersburg in 1866. Berzowski had missed him again in Paris on that historie 6th of June in 1867. Solveiff failed in 1879. They laid a mine for him just outside Moscow, and the Imperial luggage train happened to be running first that day. Then they filled a vault below the dining room at the Winter Paliace. But that February evening it so fell out that the imperial dinner party was a little later than usual. The Czar had gone to meet the Prince of Heese. The mine was fired before the party had entered the room. Before the Bortal and the solution of the content of th

THE PRESIDENT'S APPEAL.

The President has appealed to the muon-sense of the Spanish government, and has invited them to look at estimation as it exists. The interiors of the two countries are really as same. It concerns both that Cuba until be tranquil and prosperous. But the island cannot be either prosperous tranquil until the rebellion is at an eld, and the rebellion cannot be rought to an end by Spain. The interior of the cubans are not unfair. Spain, is the only solution of a difficulty which may involve the two emispheres in war.
